Our relationship with our customers

In partnership with our customers, we see ourselves not as a supplier, who provides a service and moves on, but instead we rely successfully on long-term and sustainable partnerships, by sharing the risks and responsibilities inherent in going new ways in IT. This is reflected in our long-lasting relationships with many of our customers. A partnership can only be governed to an extent by contractual obligations. Above all, it must be lived – day by day. Because confidence only comes from understanding – the foundation to approach something new together.
